The screenshot shows a web browser window with the address bar displaying `idhmc.tamu.edu/arcgrant/`. The browser's address bar includes navigation buttons (back, forward, refresh) and a search icon. Below the address bar, a dark navigation bar contains the ARC logo (a blue square with white stars) and the text "arc". To the right of the logo, a horizontal menu lists: HOME, ABOUT, CONTRIBUTING NODES, DEVELOPMENT, RESOURCES, and NEWS & EVENTS. The main content area features a large, dark banner with a background of binary code (0s and 1s) and faint, overlapping handwritten text. Overlaid on this banner are several glowing white dots connected by curved lines, suggesting a network or data flow. In the bottom left corner of the banner, a white text box contains the text: "Welcome to ARC", "The Advanced", and "Research Consortium". Below the banner, a dark blue section contains the title "The Advanced Research Consortium (ARC)" in white, followed by a subtitle: "A consortium of scholars committed to advancing research in the humanities through period-specific online communities built around peer-review, aggregation, and searching digital data." At the very bottom of the page, a small copyright notice reads: "© ARC - Powered by WordPress and WP Dev Shed".

Building Bridges between Academic Networks

Elizabeth Grumbach [@EMGrumbach], ARC Project Manager
Initiative for Digital Humanities, Media, and Culture (IDHMC) at Texas A&M University

As a hub of humanities research nodes, ARC contains scholarly resources spanning the bulk of existing Western-written documents, scanned page images, text transcriptions, scholarly research, and teaching and research tools to help humanities researchers work with digital text and images. ARC coordinates the resources of these research environments.

“As computational data structures, images differ radically and fundamentally from electronic text. . . . [A]ll raster-based image formats—GIF, TIFF, JPEG, and BMP, to name some of the most common—are stored . . . as a matrix or grid in which each pixel is assigned a color value . . . ,” as “a table of these pixel values.”

It is for this reason that “images remain largely opaque to the algorithmic eyes of the machine.”

"ECCO is an amazingly rich resource: it puts a magnificent library of eighteenth-century printed material on the desktops of scholars and students. It vastly improves access; it allows the scholar to discover new seams of material; it gives students unprecedented access to masses of primary source material. And of course it supports new kinds of searching. It is very well presented and in general easy to use."

P A M E L A;

O R,

V I R T U E Rewarded.

In a Series of FAMILIAR LETTERS.

V O L. III.

L E T T E R. I.

My dear Father and Mother,

E arrived here last Night, highly pleased with our Journey, and the Occasion of it. May God bless you both with long Life and Health, to enjoy your fixt Farm, and pretty Dwelling, which is just what I wish'd it to be. And don't make your grateful Hearts too uneasy in the Possession of it, by your modest Diffidence of your own Worthiness: For, at the same time that it is what will do Honour to the best of Gentlemen,

Vol. III. B

The Maiden's Bloody Garland; Or, HIGH-STREET TRAGEDY:

Shewing how SARAH HOLLY, a poor unfortunate Serving Maid of the City of Oxford, being wronged by her Sweetheart, cut her Throat from Ear to Ear, was next Morning found dead in her Bed, and afterwards buried in the King's Highway.

Tune, There were Three Pilgrims.

A Mournful Ditty I will tell,
Ye knew poor Sarah Holly well,
Who at the Golden Ley did dwell.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo:

She was in Love, as some do say,
Her Sweetheart made her go astray,
And at the last did her betray.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

The Babe within her Womb did cry,
Unto her Sweetheart she did lie,
And Tears like Rain fell from her Eye.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

But oh! the Wretch's Heart was hard,
He to her Cries gave no Regard,
Is this, says she, my Love's Reward?
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

Oh! woe is me! I am betray'd,
Oh! had I liv'd a spotless Maid,
I ne'er with Sobs and Sighs had paid.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

But now I'm prest'd with Grief and Woe
And Quiet ne'er again can know,
God grant my Soul to Heaven may go.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

For I my wretched Days must end,
Yet e'en for these my Prayers I'll send,
I die to all the World a Friend.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

Then to her Friends she bid adieu,
And gave to each some Token true,
With, "think on me when this you view."
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

Unto the Officer at the Bar,
She gave a Ringlet of her Hair,
And said, Farewell my Dearest Dear.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

O then to Madam Luff she said,
To-morrow Morn come to my Bed,
And there you'll find me quite Stone dead.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

Too true she spoke, it did appear,
Next Morn they call'd, she could not hear:
Her Throat was cut from Ear to Ear.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

No Spark of Life was in her shewn,
No Breath they saw, nor heard a Groan,
Her precious Soul was from her flown.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

She was not as I once have seen
Her trip in Martin Garden green,
With Apron starch'd, and Kuffles clean.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

With Bonnet trimm'd and founne'd and all,
Which they a Damsel do call,
And Stockings white as Snows that fall.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

But dull was that black laughing Eye,
And pale those Lips of Cherry-Dye,
And let those Teeth of Ivory.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

Those Limbs which well the Dance have led,
When Simmons Blater'd Pease hath play'd,
Were bloody, lifeless, cold and dead.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

The Crowner and the Jury came,
To give their Verdict on the same,
They doom'd her harmless Corpse to Shame.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

At Midnight, so the Law doth say,
They did her mangled Limbs convey,
And bury in the King's Highway.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

No Priest in ~~Walls~~ did there attend,
His kind Assistance for to lend,
Her Soul to Paradise to send.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

No Shroud her ghastly Face did hide,
No Winding Sheet was round her ty'd,
Like Dogs, she to her Grave was hid.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

And then, your Pity let it move,
Oh pity her who dy'd for Love,
A Snake they through her Body drove.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

It would have melted Stones to see
Such Savageneis and Cruelty
Us'd to a Maid of Twenty-three.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

Ye Maidens an Example take,
For Sarah Holly's wretched Sake,
O never Virtue's Ways forsake.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

Ye Maidens all of Oxford Town,
O never yield your chaste Rown
To Velvet Cap, or tuff'd Gown.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

And when they do to Love pretend,
No Ear unto their Fables lend,
But think on Sally's dismal End.
Heigh-bo, Heigh-bo.

Flint Powder and Lead. I therefore may infer, that we were upon the Green of the Camp of Amherst of my Great Guns, except four were taken, and that among my Hble, my small Arms were so that I think I should have been there.

[illegible]

Mr. Russell forgets that we should not do anything that is very bad to us (which was not at all) and that we are not any friends, and certainly have no making. I am a happy man and should be happy, and so I am with Dear.

As to the Asipulea Sp. which he mentioned, I saw only 1 ♂. The 1st day, when we came up with the Asipulea Sp., we were not far from Broadfides before the cold got up, and our guns froze. To this I answer,

It is false entirely. I had no former friends, but I had a friend me, and had her Gm. and wife. Again the Gm.,

That while some of them were quarrelling at her on Board, and some, Displaying the Contrary, got out a Toss of Guns, and then were too hard for us.

M. Furness must have said, as he calls it, among the Men;
That was nothing to my Command. They might have taken her, would they have obey'd my Advice, which was to Fly her, in the Chace Guns, and Command her that way; For we had nothing to do

here, by the Management of those Pyrating Fellows, rather than Sailors, the Luís I could not take on Board; nor could I trust any of them with the Sailing such a Ship, as could neither keep me Company, nor make a right Steerage-way.

In p. 33. He says truth as to Mr. Observator's Ship and the Monkey that was left in her; but as to Firing at anything but the Ship, and the whole Crew, who before we could make up to her, had made into their Boats, and nothing besides the Cargo and the Monkey were indeed on Board, which should have been brought along, had we not Observators enough at Home.

The next thing they Charge me with, especially Mr. Fannell in p. 41. in the Gulph of St. Michael's, says, when we were in the Barge last taken, and Indian Canoe killed us, and that I order'd her to be Fird upon. The Contrary is very plain, for when I saw some of them that had Fird without my Order, I was very Uneasy and Troubled at it, knowing the Consequence of it.

The Second Thing that's Material is, that the Ship mentioned by Mr. Fannell in p. 45. 46. where he seems to Explain 80000 Dollars was Hid in the Run of the Ship, and I kept the Opportunity of taking it, and turning her Adrift; So this I answer, That I had evident Proof she had Landed her Money at Truxilla; and as to Provisions, we took as much as would provide us for One Year, and much longer, if well manag'd, that was, what our Ship could well Store, and this was the Steward and the Crew's Calculation. Now as to a Report that they make about Town, 50000 Dollars that should be offer'd for her Ranfom; First I had no convenient Road to Ride in, and the strong Southerly Winds were set in, and so if I had Lopter'd for her, must certainly been Imbay'd for 3 or 4 Months: Besides the Winds, thro' the Treachery of the Spaniards, I have had the Experience of it before in a like Case, Riding there for Ranfom with Capt. Smart and Capt. Davis, for instead of keeping their Faith, they came off with a Fire-ship in the Night and 14 Portugueses; and tho' we had much better Crew and Stouter Men. We came narrowly off.

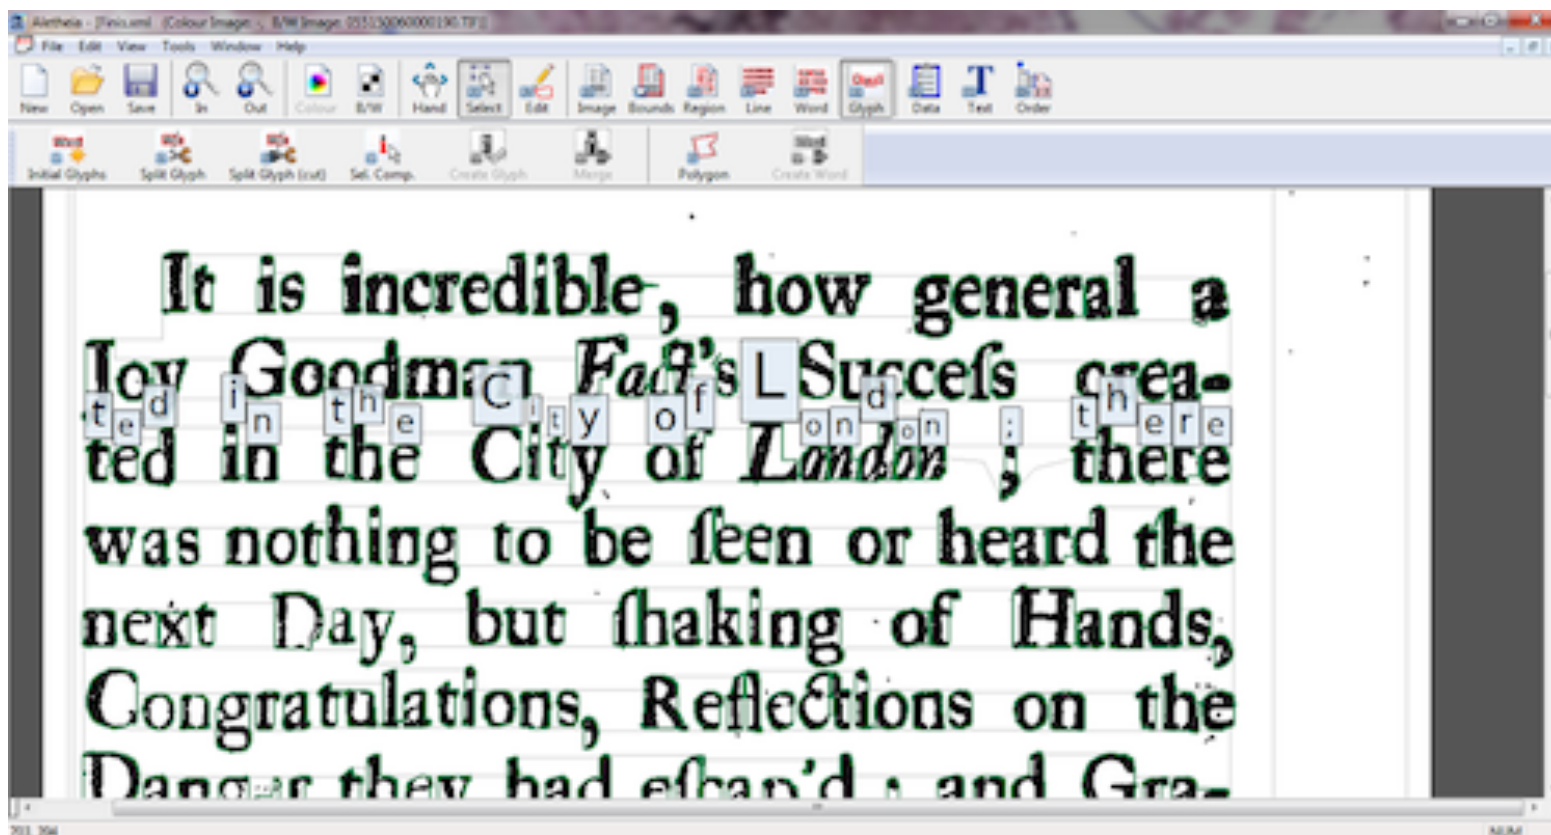

Now, the way are Judges in my Case and Conduct, a Parcel of Fish who were perpetually drunk, and very fit, you'll say, for Gutting a Ship in the Night, or being kept in any Decorum.

Again in p. 46. 47. Whereas Mr. Fannell frequently would insinuate, that I could agree with nobody; and so says that parted this way with Capt. Stradling. I say, I Departed Capt. Stradling; say not only that, but at Juan de Fernandos, where all his Men left him, I reconcil'd them and him again; here for

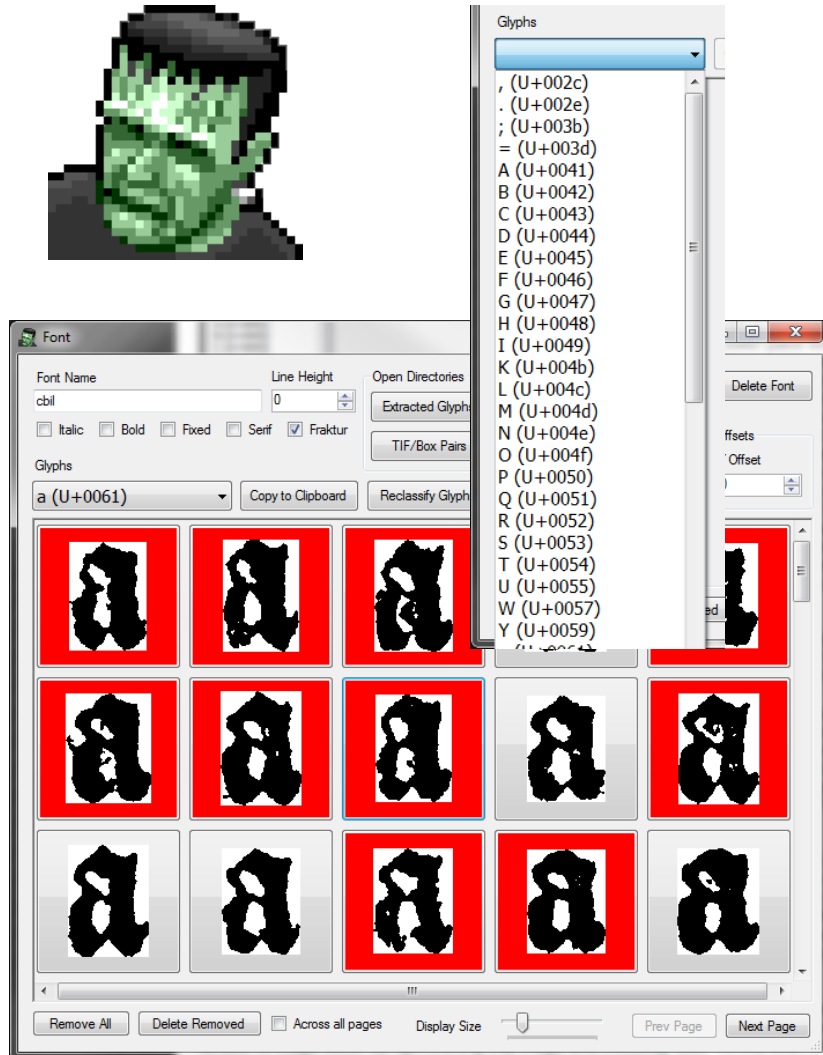

Training Tesseract

Aletheia

Created by PRIMA Research Labs. A team of undergraduates uses Aletheia to identify each glyph on the page images, and ensure that the correct Unicode value is assigned to each. Aletheia outputs an XML file containing all identified glyphs on a page with their corresponding coordinates and Unicode values.

Training Tesseract

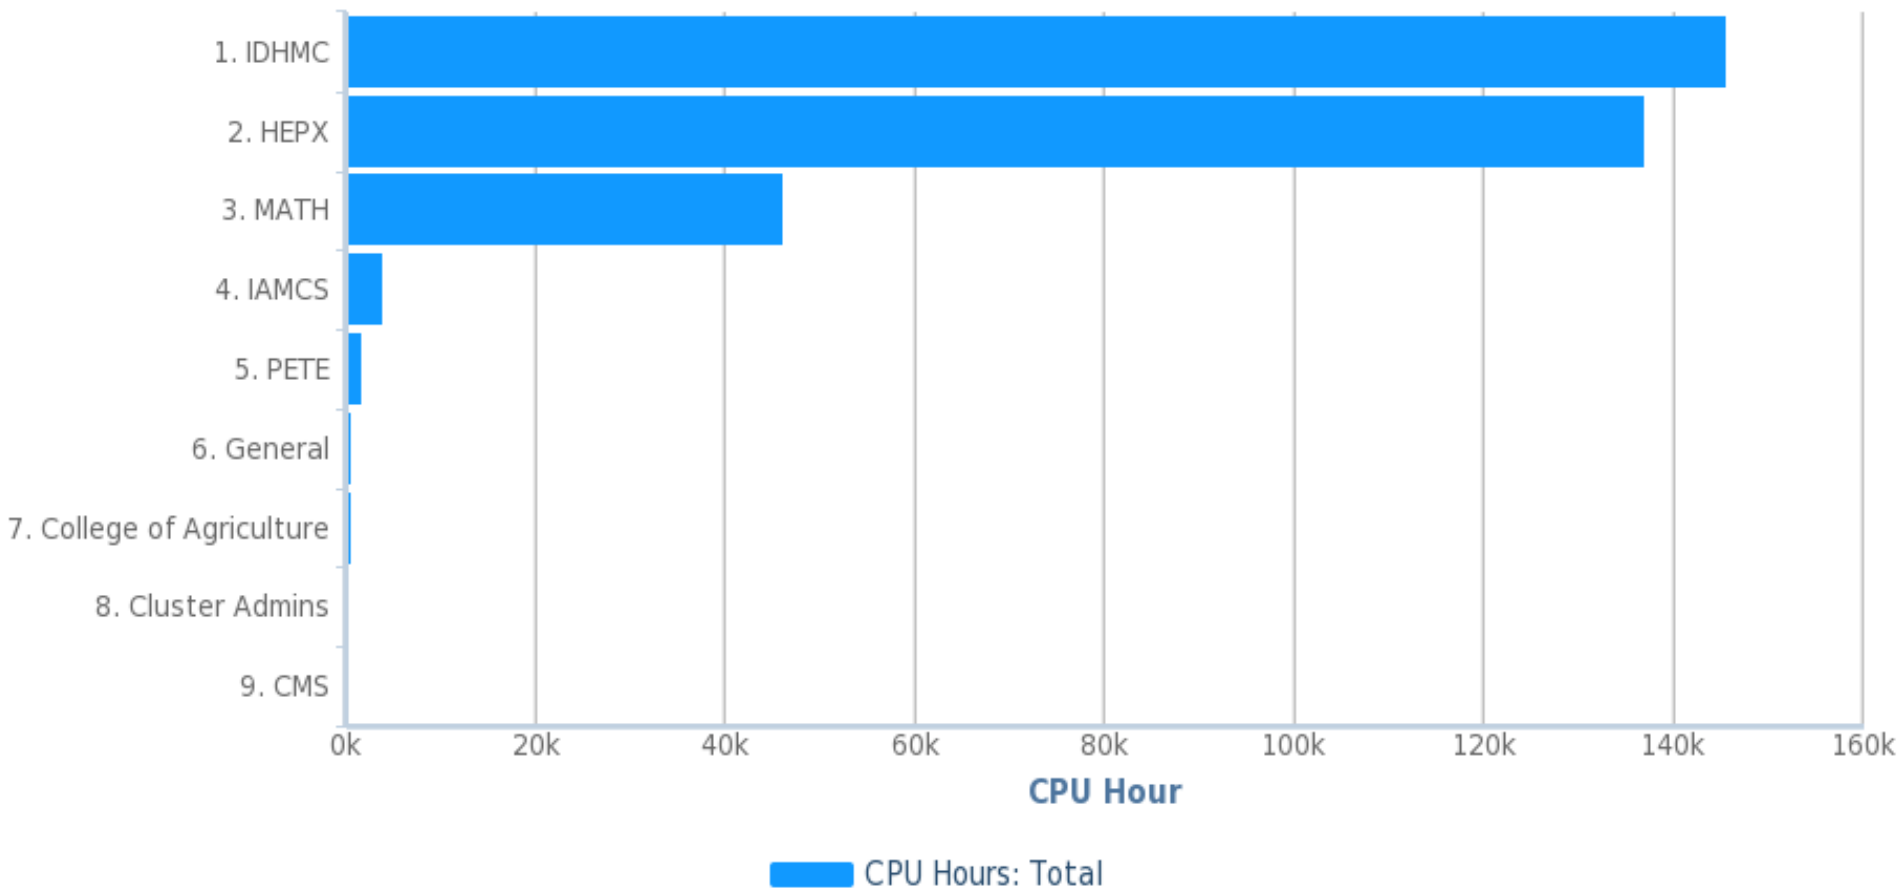

Franken+

1. Takes Aletheia's output files as input.
2. Groups all glyphs with the same Unicode values into one window for comparison.
3. Mistakenly coded glyphs are easily identified and re-coded.
4. A user can quickly compare all exemplars of a glyph and choose just the best subset, if desired.
5. Uses all selected glyphs to create a Franken-page image (TIFF) using a selected text as a base.
6. Outputs the same box files and TIFF images that Tesseract's first stage of native training.
7. Also allows users to complete Tesseract training using newly created box/TIFF file pairs, and add optional dictionary and other files.
8. Outputs a .traineddata file used by Tesseract when OCRing page images.

TypeWright

- www.18thconnect.org/typewright/
- Available through 18thconnect.org
- Crowd-sourced correction tool for OCR.
- Currently available for ECCO collection, based on original ECCO OCR results.
- Will be ingested with eMOP OCR for ECCO and EEBO by year-end.
- Users can correct a whole document and then receive the text or a lightly encoded TEI XML version for use in a digital edition or whatever.

This will be the first time that EEBO documents are available as searchable text, and that they can be corrected by scholars for use and/or publication.

Gale and 18thConnect Partner to Improve Access to Eighteenth Century Documents

By Dana Wheelles on November 5, 2010

18thConnect's work with Gale/Cengage has been publicized by a press release, copied in this message. Users of 18thConnect already have access to citations from Gale's ECCO catalog [here.]

Farmington Hills, Mich., Nov. 4, 2010 — Gale, part of Cengage Learning, and 18thConnect, a scholarly organization dedicated to forging links between eighteenth-century archives and today's digital research environment, today announced a partnership to share scholarly content and improve the searchability of documents within Gale's Eighteenth Century Collections Online (ECCO) archive.

"Gale's partnership with 18thConnect gives us a unique opportunity to collaborate with a leading scholarly organization in order to improve upon the user experience within ECCO, the leading database for research and teaching of the eighteenth century," said Jim Draper, Vice President and Publisher, Gale.

Gale's ECCO archive, one of the largest academic research collections of its kind, contains more than 180,000 key English and foreign language titles published primarily in the United Kingdom. Despite Gale's use of the best in Optical Character Recognition (OCR) technology, eighteenth-century typefaces can still be challenging to capture with perfect accuracy, which may impact results when searching or data-mining.

Recently, 18thConnect was awarded National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) sponsored supercomputer time to re-run page images from the ECCO archive through an open-source OCR program that will generate cleaner texts. This improved OCR-created text will be incorporated into ECCO, resulting in improved searching within the resource. In addition, registered 18thConnect users will then have the opportunity to review the improved texts and correct them using a tool housed on the 18thConnect website. The correction tool will be built thanks to a grant awarded to Miami University of Ohio from the Mellon Foundation. Using this crowd-sourced correction tool, users can further correct issues not caught by the OCR process, and in exchange they will have the

TEXT AND META DATA SHARING AGREEMENT

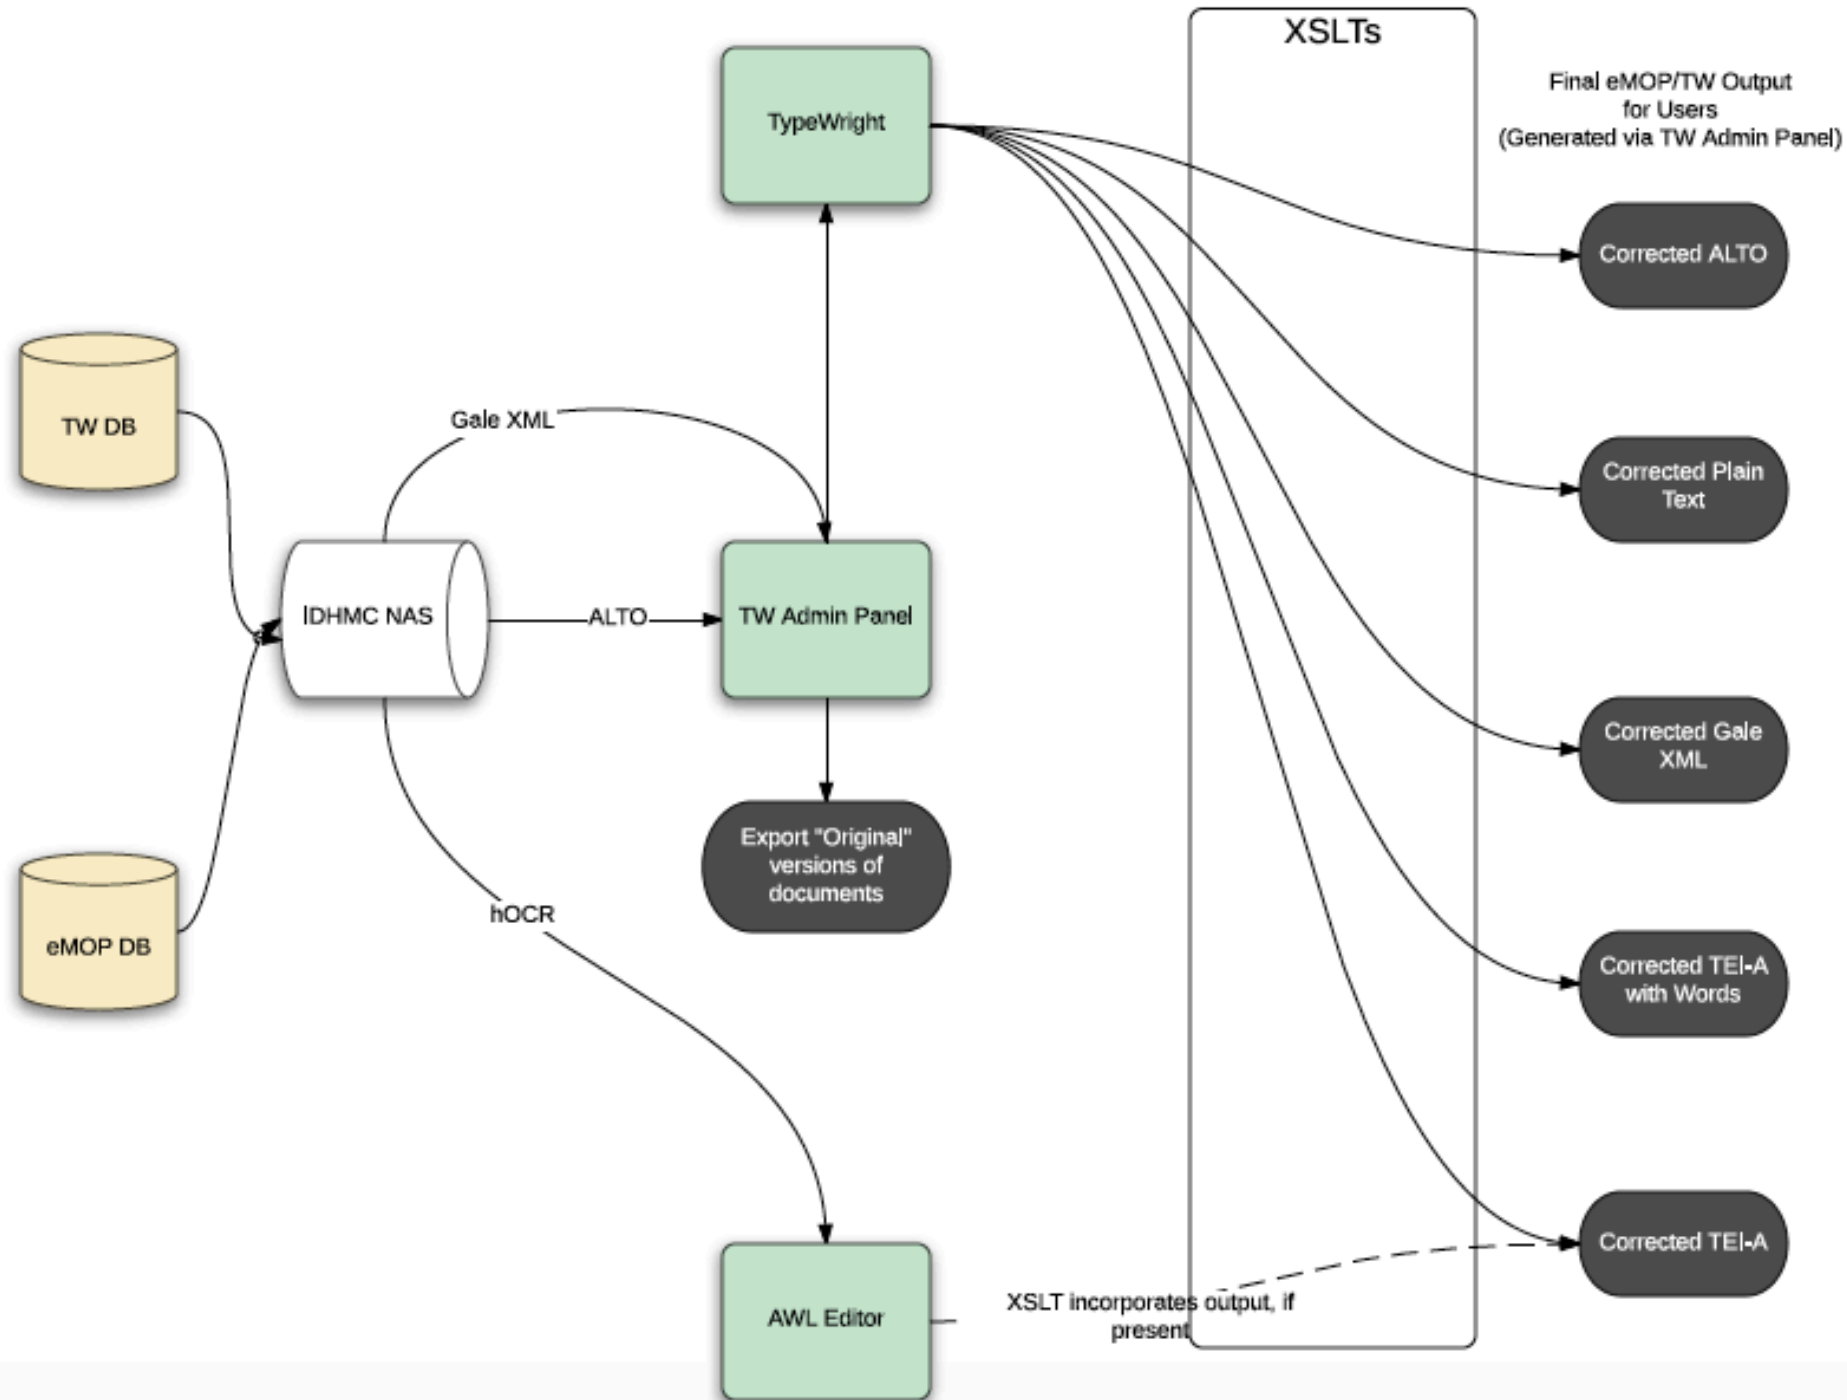

THIS TEXT AND METADATA SHARING AGREEMENT (this “Agreement”) is entered into by and between PROQUEST LLC, a Delaware Limited Liability Company (“PROQUEST”), with offices at 789 e. Eisenhower Parkway, Ann Arbor, MI 48106-1346 and Networked Interface for Nineteenth-century Electronic Scholarship, a not-for-profit endeavor from Texas A&M University (“ARC” representing “REKN/ 18THCONNECT “) as of the Contract Date specified below (the “Effective Date”).

WHEREAS, PROQUEST’S mission is to create indispensable research solutions that connect researchers with information and empower them to use, create and share content, including but not limited to its EEBO Database which includes page images of works originating in 14th to 17th century; and

WHEREAS, REKN/18THCONNECT seeks to enable REKN and 18thConnect users to explore 14th to 17th-century works currently available in digital form by providing scholars with the ability to conduct research within federated digital environments, as well as to produce personal annotated collections and exhibits using an integrated tool.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the premises and the mutual promises contained herein and other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which are hereby acknowledged, the parties agree as follows:

1. DEFINITIONS

Online Humanities Scholarship: The Shape of Things to Come

Online Humanities Scholarship, The Shape of Things to Come is a three day conference to explore how to develop and sustain online humanities research and publication. Nine scholarly papers and eighteen responses will leverage discussion by a broad group of persons invited to the conference to contribute their expertise. This group includes scholars working on other projects and persons from funding agencies, publishers, museums, libraries, and professional organizations. The conference is closed to this group in order to provide maximum focus to the discussions.

The 'content focus' is a set of editorial projects that implement digital technology in different scholarly disciplines: specifically literary and cultural studies, history, classics, archaeology, and music. While the technical features of these projects will inevitably come into discussion, the social and institutional issues facing all scholarly ventures of these kinds are the imperative concern: how to sustain the life of such projects; how to address their institutional obstacles and financial demands; how to involve the greater community of students and scholars in online research and publication; how to integrate these resources with our inherited material and paper-based depositories; how to promote institutional collaborations to support these scholarly efforts; how to link online resources, which are now largely dispersed and isolated, into a connected network. The sustainability and institutional problems should be considered the two overriding topics.
